After issuance of letters, the transfer was allowed. The account was never utilized by the conservatorship estate or accessed by Petitioner because funds never became necessary before the Conservatee's death. 1. The petition filed 7-15-13 had an account period of 6-29-12 through 7-13-13. Examiner Notes previously noted that the accounting was not in compliance with Probate Code §2620(b), which requires a separate accounting for the period after the conservatee's date of death, was not presented on the mandatory Judicial Council forms, and charges and credits did not balance. Further, it was unclear if there was property on hand, as a figure of $17,840.39 was listed, but the petition indicated that there was nothing left in the conservatorship estate, as it did not request any distribution of that amount.

Supplement filed 8-28-13 puts the summary and schedules on the mandatory forms and revises the account to end at DOD (no subsequent period). The summary indicates POH is zero, but charges and credits still do not balance ($18,834.07 / $993.68). In the text, Petitioner explains that the asset – a retirement account – was distributed to the pay on death beneficiary; however, because Petitioner does not include the amount as a credit, and the account still technically does not balance.

Examiner's Note: It appears that if the figure previously provided as POH ($17,840.39) is the same as the amount described as distributed, had been included in the credits summary, the account would balance, given the revised "receipts" figure; however, because that figure is not specifically referenced here, Examiner cannot assume that it is the same.

Cont. from 060413, 070913, 081313		I & A - $45,000.00	1. There does not appear to be a provision in the Probate Code that would allow an individual to assign or disclaim their right in a summary proceeding. Therefore all who succeed to the property (petitioner and decedent's 4 children) must petition. If after all those entitled receive the property they can then transfer their interest in the property to the petitioner. 2. Pursuant to Probate Code §282 a Disclaimer of Interest acts if the disclaimant predeceased the creator of the interest (decedent).
